

St. Paul Catholic Celebrates National Foreign Language Week

For Immediate Release

Wednesday, March 5, 2008

St. Paul Catholic in Bristol is celebrating National Foreign Language Week, March 3-7, 2008. This is a time during which students celebrate culture and diversity, along with the St. Paul values of faith and acceptance. Each day, students will recite the Morning Prayer in a different language and will be learning about other cultures in their classes, including preparing and sampling dishes and delicacies from other countries.

Each foreign language class has been working hard on a different project to get ready for Foreign Language Week. The Spanish classes have made piñatas, pyramids, windmills, Spanish bullrings, and LaCatrina hats. The Latin classes have designed posters and made volcanoes, while French students have designed replicas of Notre Dame Cathedral's Rose Window. These beautiful projects are on display in the St. Paul foyer.

St. Paul Catholic participates each year in National Foreign Language Week to encourage excitement for learning new languages and an interest in other cultures.

St. Paul Catholic High School is a vibrant faith-based, learning community that fosters a culture of integrity, courage and character. These distinctive values provide the foundation for our student's spiritual, academic and physical development. Our dynamic Catholic environment empowers each student with the fortitude to pursue and realize a life of accomplishment and purpose.
